

A Talk by Rebecca Tinsley

Tuesday, June 21

Hosted by Tribal Link Foundation
Time: 7-9PM
Location:
Loft of Thomas Rochon
100 Grand Street, 6th Floor, NYC (between Mercer and Greene St.)

A Talk by Rebecca Tinsley

In 2004, while the world turned a blind eye to the genocide in Sudan, journalist and human rights activist Rebecca Tinsley visited the Darfur refugee camps to interview survivors about their experiences. When she asked the women how she could help, their response was emphatic. "Go and tell our story. No one knows what's happening here."

Remarks by

Rebecca Tinsley

Former BBC reporter and author of When the Stars Fall to Earth

Founder of Network4Africa and of Waging Peace, non-governmental organizations that address genocide and assist survivors

RSVP

Pamela Kraft
917-439-6443
pkraft@triballink.org

or

Beth Grossman
908-996-3068
bgmth@rcn.com

Speakers' Bios

Rebecca Tinsley is a journalist and human rights activist who has worked in nine African countries. She founded Waging Peace, a London-based group campaigning on Darfur, and Network for Africa, a charity working with survivors of genocide after the big aid agencies move elsewhere. Together with her husband Henry, she was asked by President and Mrs Carter to start the Carter Centre UK. She was on the London Committee of Human Rights Watch for seven years, and has attended human rights trials in Turkey on their behalf. Rebecca was born in Toronto in 1960 and moved to the UK in 1970. She completed a law degree at the London School of Economics. She is a former BBC politics reporter, and she stood for election to the UK parliament twice during the 1980s. Two of her novels have been published in the UK. Her articles have appeared in The Times, The Independent, The Telegraph, The Guardian, The New Statesman, The Santa Barbara News-Press and the Anniston Star. She is on the advisory board of Bennington College, Vermont, and is a trustee of the Bosnian Support Fund.

About Tribal Link

Tribal Link Foundation, Inc. is a communications network linking indigenous peoples to information, media, resources and relevant networks, with a special focus on the United Nations system. Tribal Link provides outreach to the public regarding indigenous peoples and their issues, emphasizing the significance of the United Nations Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues.